

L.A.D.A. Committee Says County is Getting More than its Share of Tax Monies

Vol. 39 No. 40

Nutshell News And Comment

In the business of acquiring rights-of-way in the county for roads, sidewalks and other purposes, there are some who are covered with odd situations that oftentimes the authorities must pause and scratch their heads. In one instance the owner of the right-of-way in question was willing to deed the necessary portion to the county. There was this hitch. The owner was the wife of a man who did not know she had purchased the land. And the wife made it a condition of her conveyance of the right-of-way that her husband be kept in the dark.

The right-of-way agent gallantly agreed to do what he could in helping her keep the secret, but that particular deed is still in question.

What about that stray dog? Animal lovers can decry the unthinking panic that follows reports of mad dogs. Innocent mutts fall prey to the general slaughter that the mad dog scare provokes. Killing a dog often prevents proper observation and detection of rabies infected animals.

The number of animal bites reported during January to the county board of health was 104 and 18 rabid dogs were discovered in that month.

Have your dog or dogs vaccinated. Keep your dog off the streets or roads if you suspect your dog has been bitten. Report to the health department. You will be asked to keep the animal up for 14 days.

For rabies show in the dog under observation you will be advised regarding treatment.

During 1945 influenza cases to the total of 45,120 were reported in Louisville and Jefferson County. When it is noted that during 1944 the number of rabid cases were only 224 it is apparent from the health department bulletin for February that the 1944 influenza epidemic was no small matter. It is true that the pestilence lacked the deadly quality of the "flu" that took so many lives during the war. But it is also a reminder of the rapid spread of diseases even under the most watchful conditions. Watch that cold.

Our Washington reporter, Leon Bloch, mimes no word that when he warns that the food situation in the world is precarious. "The fact is," says Bloch, "the world faces potential starvation."

From a world viewpoint, there were other grains are scarcer than ever before in history and the prospects for the next three years are dim. There is no word of a shortage of beef, pork and lamb. There is no word of a shortage of eggs and butter. There is no word of a shortage of wheat and corn. There is no word of a shortage of any of the staples of the human diet.

There will be an unheard of shortage of beef, pork and lamb. There will be an unheard of shortage of eggs and butter. There will be an unheard of shortage of wheat and corn. There will be an unheard of shortage of any of the staples of the human diet.

Entries Coming In For Drama Tourney

The First Annual Dramatic Tournament in Jefferson County is rounding into shape as entries begin to arrive at the recreation office.

This week, the Anchorage High School, Okolona High School, Shively Junior Club, Fern Creek Homemakers, Middletown Eastern Star, and Middletown Teenagers filed official announcements of their intention to participate.

Other groups including Future Farmers, churches, P.T.A.'s, Homemakers and other clubs are expected to enter, otherwise preparing to take the field.

Supervisor Ray Baer, of the Jefferson County Recreation Department, is expected to make an official announcement of the tournament, intended to enter to make formal application at once so definite dates for the tournament play-off can be arranged.

It is hoped that a "little theatre" project may be one of the natural results of the increasing interest in drama in the county.

According to Baer, there has been a demand for dramatics, music activities and folk and square dancing in the county and emphasis will be laid on these features of recreation in coming programs.

Following the Spring Play Dramatic Tournament, Baer plans to combine the above activities into a county wide Summer Festival.

JEFFERSONTOWN, KY., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1946

George Washington, 1732-1799

The actuality cannot but be that the task is so huge that it is utterly impossible to save all those now in the throes of famine. Even our best will likely fall short of the need.

"And no matter how much you give, there will be no waste, for the L.A.D.A. and several grand projects. Mrs. H. B. Lovell was chairman and Mr. George Slaughter, County Board of Education member was an interested participant in the meeting.

Now is The Time To Act on Jail Problems

There has been a great deal of "talk," most of it emphatically in support of the jail farm to supplant the present medical County citizen and a monument to the lethargy of the responsible public.

With the Kentucky Legislature in session, with the recommendation of churches, clubs, institutions in the county, in the name of a penal farm for the L.A.D.A. and several grand projects, many of whom are minor offenders, may be employed in useful work, learn respectable trades, and in some measure, at least, become what is termed reformed.

The present jail and workhouse are pitiful representations of an ancient idea that a penal system was merely a plant where prisoners, many of whom are minor offenders, may be employed in useful work, learn respectable trades, and in some measure, at least, become what is termed reformed.

The Jefferson County Clinic Basketball Tourney

The Jefferson County Clinic Basketball Tourney is scheduled for last Saturday morning resulted in wins for Jeffersonville and St. Matthews. The tourney was held at the Fairdale Junior High School where the tables were turned by the Seniors when Middletown Eastern Star defeated the Junior class.

1. The Jail and Workhouse should be consolidated and placed under one head.

2. The head of the new institution (and his staff) should be a career man, non-political, appointed and not elected, removed from the fee system, and working with the welfare department.

3. The construction of a new institution in the county, in the name of a penal farm for the L.A.D.A. and several grand projects, many of whom are minor offenders, may be employed in useful work, learn respectable trades, and in some measure, at least, become what is termed reformed.

Class in Recreation At Jeffersontown H

Students at Jeffersontown High School have an entirely new subject added to their curriculum. Physical education, recreation, and physical education teacher, Ray Baer, supervisor of county recreation.

Baer, is definitely in line with the aims of the physical education department of our high schools.

"It breaks the monotony of purely calisthenic exercise and gives the student a chance to get general interest. I believe the result of this class will show the desirability of a similar program in all of our high schools."

Fire Destroys House As Family Moves In

A three-room tenant house on the farm of C. A. Wiseman, on Taylorsville Road, near Jeffersontown, was completely destroyed by fire, Saturday afternoon, at 4:30, while the new occupants, Mr. and Mrs. George Slaughter and family, of Indiana, were moving in.

While a part of the household goods were in the house and the balance of the articles still on the porch, a sister of Mrs. Slaughter, finding the fire in the stove burning too low, poured a bucket of coal oil on the fire, it is said, to speed up the heating process.

The resulting explosion blew out windows and doors, set the house on fire and burned the young woman severely on arms and legs.

The Jeffersontown Volunteer Fire Department, which was not called at once because the fire broke out during the night, arrived in time to prevent the blaze spreading to other buildings.

A baby carriage was the only article saved. There was no insurance on the building.

J'town Civic Club Hears Bus Critics

A discussion of suburban bus service consumed much of the time at Monday night's session of the Jefferson County Civic Club. Crowded conditions that prevail at the early morning and late afternoon hours and interrupt the service were criticisms directed at the Blue Motor Coach lines in the lengthy discussion.

A conclusion of the matter was reached when a resolution was passed to invite the Recreation Board, local member of the firm of bus line operators to the club's next meeting to give an account of the side of the question of bus service. While some of those taking part in the discussion were of the opinion that present operating conditions were not normal, they felt that it might be possible to obtain a measure of relief if certain adjustments were made in the setup.

Other matters brought before the club by the members included needed in the girls high school rest room, local sewage disposal and other questions of minor importance.

A number of members before the club brought up membership cards for the year.

County Charged With Visits of Residents To City Parks. Plan Promised for 'Correction Of Situation,' Hinting More City Control.

By A. G. Host

There is an old quip about the "statistical liar" being the lowest of the species. There is a recent reminder of the possible truth of that epithet in the report of a sub-committee of the L.A.D.A. headed by John R. Lindsay, chairman, with James A. Henning, Henry Y. Offutt, William R. Crutcher and Otto C. Ruth, Jr., as members.

This report has humorous sides as well as a more serious implication. It is evidently part of the campaign to divert more of the Fiscal Court monies into the city channels by attempting to establish title to the majority of tax funds.

Taking as its basis the public contributions through taxes it endeavors to show how much the city pays for county benefits. Then it adds up figures obtained in a more or less arbitrary manner together with some more or less evanescent figures having to do with vague matters such as the use of Louisville parks by residents of the county.

The report charges the county with fire runs outside city limits. It is supposed to be paid for such runs by the benefited.

While the total amount of money the report claims is paid for county benefits is small, the people of Louisville are led to believe that action is being taken to cut amounts spent for county benefits.

The whole matter is too naive for very serious attention. It is a bit like the picture of a mechanical contrivance fails when subjected to the rule of human ingenuity.

Who can deny that although county arterial roads lie adjacent to farms and homes of county residents, that the use of these roads is overwhelmingly advantageous to the city. Of something

Bouquets Thrown At Commissioner White

County Commissioner E. P. White, Jr., who declares his hobby is encouraging everyone to "speak their mind" and acknowledge that there are times when there are compensations for every brickbat that discontented citizens hurl.

"When you hold an official vice everybody and anybody to express their opinion, you can bet that some of this 'back talk' will not be entirely complimentary."

In a letter addressed to White, however, I have found a belief that elected representatives of the people should be ready to receive whatever there is complaint or criticism.

"It is therefore all the more pleasing when some grateful citizen writes his pen in hand and gives you a written pat on the back. Make no mistake. We like it."

Another missive that caused the Commissioner to smile was the commendatory letter received from the Kentucky Big Game Hunters Club, which the executive secretary advised White he was heartily in accord with.

The Big Game Hunters Club is an organization of sportsmen of the state of Kentucky who are interested in preserving the wildlife and restoring the deer, wild turkey and other game birds that were once a resident of the State.

St. Matthews Institute Opens Next Friday

The Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board will conduct a Recreation—Play-Institute, which is to be sponsored by the Woman's Club of St. Matthews at Greathouse School, March 1, 4 and 6, from 10:30 to 3:30 p.m.

The Valley High School, Newburg, Middletown and the castle communities will present several folk games and dances during the March 1 Recreation—Play-Institute.

In presenting these activities the Recreation Board hopes to stimulate interest on the part of Jefferson County high school students in the field of recreation which is to be offered next fall, at the University of Louisville. Furthermore, these activities are going to be followed by an intensive recreation institute to be held in the spring of 1947.

Anyone wishing more information can contact the County Recreation Office, 402 Fifth Court Bldg. in the Springfield Wilson, resident of the Woman's Club of St. Matthews, and Mrs. J. W. Williams, resident of the recreation committee of the Woman's Club.

30 Billion Board Feet Of Lumber Per Year

How much wood in the form of lumber is used in the United States in an average year?

The answer is 30 billion board feet, which does not mean much to the average inquirer, because the number is too big for comprehension.

To emphasize that the figure is truly of an astronomical vastness, a Forest Service statistician has put the lumber into an imaginary board walk. The walk is thirty feet wide and one inch thick and reaches all the way to the moon.

More than half that amount, the Forest Service says, ordinarily goes into building construction. The other half is for all sorts of manufactured articles, boxes, furniture, matches, millwork, toys, and many other uses.

A second, and highly important, use of wood lies in its contribution to intellectual life, providing chivalrously for printing books, magazines and newspapers. Newspaper accounts for about a fourth of the wood-pulp consumption.

Wood remains of great importance as a fuel.

Baptists have a unique financial plan of supporting their state, home, and world-wide causes, which include, in the state, providing for 300 orphan children, over 300 full time workers, five Christian schools, and one hospital.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

HENRY: "I've heard that something several times lately... that alcoholics are really sick people. It was news to me. Do you agree with that statement, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Yes, it's true, Henry. It's no notion of mine... it's a statement made by scientists who have studied the subject."

HENRY: "What did they find out, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, as a result of their medical research, they found out that approximately 85% of the people who drink drink sensibly, 85% do so unwisely, at times.

Included in that 5% is the small percentage known as alcoholics."

HENRY: "But why are they called sick people?"

OLD JUDGE: "Because it has been discovered that, in many cases, excessive drinking is a symptom of some physical or emotional maladjustment... not the cause of it."

HENRY: "Now I understand it, Judge. I'm glad to hear of the modern approach to this problem and that so much is really being done to help these folks."

Red Cross Campaign To Start Wednesday

The 1946 Red Cross Campaign in Louisville and Jefferson County begins February 27th and continues through March 11th. The National goal is $100,000,000 to be used for Red Cross services overseas and in this country. Luther B. Stein is Chairman of the Campaign in Louisville and Jefferson County.

Although the war is ended, the need for Red Cross service is still very great. Red Cross Clubs in Europe and in the Pacific help to keep up the morale of the occupation forces. Red Cross Field Directors are still stationed with overseas units to help the men with their personal problems.

In the United States, there is a continuing need for Red Cross assistance to hospitalized servicemen. Red Cross Hospital Workers volunteer Nurse's Aides, Dietitians' Aides, Gray Ladies, Canteen and Motor Corps, Production Corps, and Junior Red Cross will continue to speed the convalescence of wounded men.

There is an increasing demand for Red Cross Home Service as a definite obligation of the Red Cross at all times.

The Home Service department gives information and advice in filing for disability pensions and for government benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights. Home Service also helps ex-servicemen and their families with financial assistance to them, pending settlement of government claims.

Red Cross efforts to maintain the health and welfare of civilians continue in peace as in war. Five courses in Home Nursing, Nutrition, First Aid, Water Safety, and Accident Prevention are a part of the Red Cross program of community service. Disaster Relief is a definite obligation of the Red Cross at all times.

New Chemical Kills Weeds, Preserves Grass

Columbus, Ohio — American homeowners can now keep their lawns free of weeds at an average cost of $1.00 a season as the result of a new development in 2, 4-D, a weed-killing plant hormone, scientists at the Ohio State Agricultural Experiment station revealed today.

Developed from an ester of 2, 4-Dichlorophenoxyacetic acid, this chemical which has been named Weed-No-More kills most broad-leaved weeds but is harmless to common lawn grasses. Instead of back-breaking digging every year, the average householder can now merely spray on this chemical and enjoy a smooth and weed-free lawn. Weed-No-More is manufactured by the Sherwin-Williams Co.

The preparation is particularly effective against dandelions, chickweed, bindweed, poison ivy, clover, and many other weeds, the Scientist said. It will not injure the soil and is said to be harmless to humans and animals when used according to directions.

The Fiscal Court In Action

FEBRUARY 14, 1946

County Treasurer, James E. Tierney's report was received and filed. The county's balance as of February 13, 1946 was $972,249.18.

Bids for the remaking of county road signs were opened and read, and referred to Buyer Taylor and Commissioner Thacker and Road Engineer Gailbreath for tabulation and recommendation. Bids on the concrete floor for the basement of the Army in the area where voting machines will be stored, were also opened and read and referred to Buyer Taylor, Commissioner White, and Engineer Knudsen for tabulation and recommendation. Bids for publishing of the delinquent tax list were opened and read and referred to County Attorney Steinfield and Buyer Taylor for tabulation and recommendation. Messrs. Taylor and Steinfield immediately advised the Court to place the business with the "Jeffersonian" because they were the most logical people to handle the publication of the report. The "rush" was due to the fact that the list must be published at once.

Colonel Tom A. Dover, County Police Chief asked for and received appropriation for fifteen more county patrolmen, raising his present force of 74 to 89, in order to more fully cover the county. The Fiscal Court also voted to buy four new police cars if they can be obtained. Seven thousand dollars was transferred from the continuing fund to the police budget.

Major Harry Ellington of the Louisville Fire Department appeared before the Court on request of County Fire Chief Claude Thompson, to expound the status of the Government fire-fighting equipment now in the hands of the county volunteer fire-fighters groups. An average price of $475 is demanded for these individual units which, according to Major Ellington are practically worthless for many reasons. He recommended that the county not attempt to build a modern fire-fighting service around any of these pieces of equipment and that when and if any more were returned to the present heap at 11th and Jefferson, they would be eventually disposed of as scrap. Major Ellington emphasized the fact that the Fiscal Court wasn't justified in expending one dollar in order to keep this type of equipment under any circumstances.

Mr. Lester Sharp of the Lower Hunter's Trace Road, again appeared before the Court to ask why the county had removed the tile in front of his property, which caused such a furor among the neighbors on the occasion of the last heavy rain fall. It was again brought out that this is a neighborhood quarrel but the Fiscal Court members felt that the county road engineer should make a survey of the whole area to see what could be done to relieve conditions.

Mr. John D. Frew was finally put on the county pay roll as Chief Indexer at $250 a month. On request of Garage Superintendent H. T. Crenshaw, two old trucks at the County Quarry and an old Chevrolet in the County Garage will be offered for sale as scrap to the highest bidder.

Mr. R. D. McKee, one of the right of Way Agents for the county, appeared before the commissioners in pursuit of his efforts to close right-of-way agreements on the following pieces of property: Thomas B. and Helen M. Claxton, Rehl Road. Because of the amount of work and demands made on the Court on this particular project with the result so insignificant, the matter of making any correction on Rehl Road was deferred, pending a complete study of the whole situation by the Road Department. The list of properties continues as follows:

Roy Lee and Edna Miller; Clarence P. and Hulda Brooks; Price and Birdie Howlett; Jesse B. and Eula B. Triplett; all agreed to give right of way for one minor consideration or another for the sidewalk on Preston Highway from Gilmore Lane to Vin Drive. Pioneers; W. O. and Mae Ola B. Smith; Robert and Lucy Mason; Chas. C. and Helen T. Hall; Ray T. and Nina Tinsley; Hazel L. Smallwood; Christine Howard; Lynn W. and J. E. Ruby and Lillian B. Seary; Leo Martin and wife; Arvin and Elizabeth B. Devers; Clarence E. Henson and Florence M. Helge—all agreed for some consideration or other to give right of way for the Fendale Road sidewalk. It was agreed to condemn the property of Viola B. Tucker on Fendale Road because her demands were too great for the county to meet.

New locks and keys were obtained for the Fiscal Court Building entrance in the interest of security. The recommendation was made by Sheriff Ross Dickson to William Poynter, Custodian. The Court concurred.

County Road Engineer E. A. Gailbreath reported that the trouble on Blevins Gap Road with the Howard Van Arsdale pond was strictly a private affair and if the dam was sloughing away it was a concern for Mr. Van Arsdale and his associates, and not a county problem. Any claim for damage or assistance was disallowed by the Fiscal Court. The drainage problem on Breckinridge Lane in connection with the A. J. Elms Garage will be attended to as soon as right of way Agent Gordon Winburn secures easements, as laid out on a map by the road department, through some private property across Breckinridge Lane and south of it to Wilshire Avenue.

Two electric hoists for the new voting machines were purchased by the Fiscal Court at $145 each with stands, in order to speed up setting up of the machines.

The Newburg Road sidewalk in front of the Newburg Colored School will be built of black top five feet wide, according to survey just completed by the Road Department as soon as Right of Way Agent Gordon Winburn secures the necessary easements.

The Fiscal Court ordered the purchase of $4,534.23 worth of mattresses, pillows, iron beds, sheets, blankets, pillow cases, etc. for the jail.

The Jefferson County Budget Commission will meet next week and transfer the necessary funds to the departments that have had an over-run in their original estimates.

Judge H. M. Barker requested

don herold says:

BUILDERS OF AMERICA

Last week I went into a garage and there were three men working there. Today I was in the same garage and only the foreman was left.

"Where's all your help?" I asked.

"Three of them quit to catch up with their fishin'. One went home just to sell a cow. The other was no good. As I had to fire him."

This is the picture of thousands of places today. Where is old-fashioned American ambition?

Somebody has taught people that work is a hell—a lot of other actor is a farce—that somebody will take care of everybody.

It makes me wonder what kind of America we'll have 10 years from now.

the Fiscal Court to approve of the pending shakedown in office and the Probate Clerk's office. He also asked County Attorney Steinfield for a picture on alcoholic license sold, with the idea in mind of raising the fees to make the office self-sustaining.

On request of S. W. Anderson, Agricultural Agent with offices in the Federal Building, the Fiscal Court approved the hiring of Anna K. Evans and Henry C. Brown.

County Attorney Sam Steinfield reported to the Court by letter that the Fiscal Court was absolutely without authority to appropriate money or acquire right of way for a flood wall. He based his decision on Kentucky Statutes and Court decision of March 1899 which said "no". There is, however, a bill in the State Legislature now awaiting passage that would give Fiscal Courts this right.

A six-acre yard on the Newburg Road immediately adjacent to the Southern Railway track was selected as the site for a Section District County yard and fire station. The sale price agreed on with Ben Vogt was $200.00. Approval of the site for the purpose intended is awaited from the Louisville and Jefferson County Planning and Zoning Commission before agreement is finally entered.

Court adjourned at 5 o'clock.

More miles per gallon... more power—pep—pick-up, that's what Phillips 66 aims to give you!

And you'll say we've hit the bull's-eye the first time you fill up with the new Phillips 66 and give your car a workout.

The new Phillips 66 is a high volatility gasoline that will make you open your eyes the first time you drive with it.

Talk about power—pick-up—pep—quick starts, why brother, the whole town's talking about Phillips 66!

IT WORKS!

The determined efforts of the brewing industry to maintain the licensed bottling of beer on the high plane it deserves are continuing with renewed vigor and confidence.

Confidence... because of the wholehearted acceptance of the Kentucky brewers' Self-Regulation program by forthright citizens and by law enforcement authorities.

Through this practical program Kentucky brewers see to it that beer retailers are decent, law-abiding citizens who respect the public interest and accept their legal right to sell beer as a privilege not to be abused.

Self-Regulation works!

Here's SOMETHING to remember when you are checking the prices you pay for things now with the prices you used to pay...

The general level of railroad freight charges today is no higher than it was before the war.

This prewar level has been maintained through the prices of nearly everything for which railroads pay out money—wages, materials and supplies, taxes—have gone up, just as the prices you now pay for things you buy have gone up.

But the price of the service is not the only important part of the railroad's value to this nation. The adequacy and dependability of rail service are of even greater value.

It was to its railroads that the nation turned in the emergency of war to haul 90 per cent of all the war freight, 97 per cent of military travel.

And, for the future, it is upon these twin values of the rail system—top-notch service at rock-bottom cost—that the nation will rely.

U. S. Model Hot-bed Grows Plants in Artificial Light

U. S. D. A. Photograph of Stoutner-Close Hot-Bed. A, Fluorescent Lamp Fixture; B, Trays in Which Plants Grow.

Working Drawing of Basement Hot-Bed Illustrated Above.

A hot-bed in which plants in spring's garden can be started this winter in the basement, or any room of the house, and grown to transplanting size under artificial light, is illustrated. V. T. Stoutner and Albert W. Close of the United States department of agriculture developed the model shown, which uses fluorescent lamps to supply light. More than a hundred years ago N. B. Ward, an Englishman, first called the terrarium, green plants under glass, experimentally. But until now it has been impractical to supply sufficient light artificially, without also developing too much heat. The fluorescent lamp makes it possible to provide, without too much heat, sufficient light to germinate seed and develop plants to the proper size for moving to the outdoor garden. As shown, the Stoutner-Close hot-bed consists of a box, resting on a table or on legs, in which trays or flats filled with sphagnum moss or vermiculite are placed, with an air space containing a heating tube beneath them, and fluorescent lamps above. Two 40-watt fluorescent tubes—either blue tubes, or daylight type with reflector—are suspended a foot above the flats. They are kept burning continuously. An air space above them prevents excessive heating. Below the flats is a space which is heated by an ordinary lighting unit, or by an infra-red or carbon filament lamp, or by two tungsten lamps connected in series. An electric heating coil may be used.

Pretty Waist Aid. To Bond Sales

Constructing a hotbed is not the big undertaking that some people think. While regular hotbed sash, 3 to 5 feet, is desirable to use, a bed of that size would grow 2,000 to 3,000 plants, enough for 10 gardens. If no more than 60 plants are needed, the hotbed may be no larger than 12 by 24 inches, covered with a pane of greenhouse glass, or a discarded window sash, 30 by 30 inches, covered with a bed of over 200 plant capacity. The frame for either bed could be made of scraps. It should be 10 inches high and tipped to the southeast to get the most winter sun. The pit should be dug to the covering, but being so small even corrugated cardboard would do. The pit's depth should be 20 inches. For a "regular" bed, the heating material is fresh horse manure, with no more than half litter. This is not always easy to get, but droppings-board poultry manure and tree leaves, or straw, may be used. The pit should be filled with layers, each wetted and tramped until "squashy," leaving four inches to be filled to ground level with loamy soil. Then the cover should be placed, and after 48 hours or so, when the bed temperature has dropped to 80 degrees, checked with thermometer, seed may be sowed.

The Clark Homesteaders met with Mr. Ralph Connor last Thursday. There was a nice attendance and the report was a good thing.

Mr. and Mrs. John Trumbo are the proud parents of a baby girl born the 12th of February. Her name is Patricia Ann. Mrs. Elsie Smith had for her guests, Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith and son of Buchel; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones of Simpsonville; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith and daughter, Mildred Smith.

Sorry to hear Mrs. Jim Stallard and her baby girls, Joe and Jane, have been on the sick list. Hope they will soon be well again.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bryant had for their week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Selts and little son; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bryant and little daughter, Susan of Louisville.

His character. Perhaps Lincoln's greatest fault is his expression in his second inaugural address in that climactic passage: "With malice toward none, with charity for all." In that speech he pleaded with the American people to display the same greatness of soul that had characterized his own life.

Americans, today faced with many of the problems that Lincoln was confronted with, will honor his memory in prayer and reverence on February 12, 1946.

Saving and Spending

ONE who examines his thought may be surprised to note the amount of mental mileage devoted to saving and spending as related to meeting the human need. In fact, many mortals seem to carry on a perpetual conversation with themselves as to what they shall spend and how much they shall save, how much they wish they could save.

Here comes my interpose: "Are you implying that saving and spending are not worthy of considerable thought and attention? Surely these are important human activities and should have careful consideration."

The problem of meeting human needs certainly merits careful, even prayerful thought, but never is there reason for fearful or anxious thought taking. It is important to happiness to understand the human need to meet through spiritual understanding, through intelligent faith in God, rather than through mere money-making and spending or human planning, however detailed.

Christ gave the perfect rule for meeting human needs when he said, "Matthew 6:33: 'Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.'"

Jesus set an example of loving and compassionate meeting of the needs of the human race in the Gospels about saving and spending. On one occasion, after seeing a multitude of people, he recommended that the fragments of loaves and fishes be gathered up, that the disciples might see how many there were. There was an example of thrift of words and works there was never an instance of fearful thought taking for the human need, never a hint of selfish or thoughtless spending. He was aware of the care of the human Father and knew that man's need is met through conscious unity with God, his divine source.

The belief that good comes either of saving or of spending is the basic error underlying limitation. God, the author of all good, constantly blesses his children. Good is always at hand and is not to be gained through saving or through saving of money or bodily energy or of any making of commodity. We may well spend righteously in gaining an understanding of the human need, as we may well save, untouched by the world, our natural heritage of pure heart and unblemished mind.

Thus we place both saving and spending in the spiritually neutral realm and open the way for a higher sense of supply and freedom.

Foolish spending and fearful saving both involve the belief that matter is substance and that supply is material instead of spirit. Since spirit is ever-present substance, the proverbial rainy day can never come. One might better save for a sunny day than for a rainy one.

Wisdom in the use of what we have is essential to progress. Many have failed in "Millionaire's Writings" (p. 288), "Wisdom in the Use of Money" (p. 289) and "The Christian Science Monitor" (p. 290) because they have not been right to save money for humanitarian effort than to spend for their own pleasure. However, the highest wisdom is constantly to see a higher understanding of the human need and to understand that understanding in higher and holier lives. Living above the material and increasing our joyous demands on divine love and grace, the apostle (James 1:17), "Every good gift and every perfect manner is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning."—The Christian Science Monitor.
